GENERAL NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Grant's Last Day at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—This is Gen. Grant's last day in Chicago. During his present visit he has been kept busy. At noon the Loyal Legion of the Chicago Commandery gave him a lunch at the Chicago Club house and voted him into membership of that society by acclamation. Gen. Sheridan and other distinguished army officers were present, and about twenty members of the Loyal Legion from Milwaukee. The general remained at the house of his son, Col. Fred. Grant, from 2 until 3 o'clock. At 3 o'clock he went with a number of citizens to visit the Protestant Orphan Asylum on Michigan avenue. From 5 to 7 he, with Mrs. Grant, was the guest of Gen. Sheridan and wife, at their house, where dinner was served.

The Muddle in Maine.

AUGUSTA, Nov. 18.—A large number of republican senators and representatives supposed to have been elected at the last election applied to the council to-day for permission to examine the returns, but that body, being engaged, took the matter into consideration. The impression is gaining ground that the majority of the council will prevent the republicans from seeing the returns until at least a part of the twenty days has passed. It is known that the returns have all been submitted with a report and accepted, but the tables themselves are not on file but in possession of a committee, who do not consider them a part of the record. A stated committee will submit their final conclusion after the twenty days have elapsed for correcting errors in the returns. There is very little excitement, and republican leaders claim that conspiracy will yet be attempted, though a temporary halt in operations has been ordered.

An Atrocious Crime.

AMESBURY, Mass., Nov. 18.—Two young sons of Mrs. H. P. Beard were burned to death last night by a fire which an incendiary started in the room they occupied.

The Louisiana Liars.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18.—Before the senate sub-committee, Peter Williams testified regarding the election in the 7th ward of this city in 1878. Moore, who was declared elected by the legislature from this ward told witness that a clerk in the Packard legislature would answer for members when the roll was called. Moore gave witness to understand that he could tell a tale about Kellogg's action that would be useful to the democrats, out of which they could make a pile of money. They agreed to do this, but Moore was offered a place in the custom house, which he accepted, would now testify to the contrary. Blanchard, now dead, gave Moore blank registration papers to use in the 7th ward. Moore said that the ward went democratic but was counted for the republicans. After the election the registration books were taken to the custom house and the names erased.

[illegible] Monier, U. S. supervisor in the 7th ward election in 1876, testified that the election was very fair. No trouble occurred. No protest was entered, yet poll 8 was thrown out by the returning board. Nearly 500 votes were cast at this poll, which gave about 170 majority for the democrats. Witness said the returns had all been made according to law.

The Toombs Telegram, "Death to the Union."

ATLANTA, Nov. 18.—The editor of the News has verified the correctness of the dispatch received from Gen. Robert Toombs of Atlanta, Georgia, on the 12th inst. The dispatch received has been compared with the one sent and found to be correct in every word. There was no garbling in the transmission. The closing sentences were:

"[illegible] fought for his country honorably and [illegible] I fought for mine and lost. I am ready to [illegible] again. Death to the Union."

Disastrous Gales.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The tug Seymour of Ogdensburg left Cape Vincent yesterday with four tows, three dredges and eight scows for Buffalo. During the night a gale on Lake Ontario was encountered, and three [illegible] of the small dredges and scows were lost. One tug was picked up to-day and the steamer has arrived at Sackett's Harbor. Of [illegible] only six persons were saved and [illegible] lost.

Following is a list of the lost: Mr. Arnold, one of the proprietors, and Henry Ekles, son of the proprietor; Jas. B. Young, of Buffalo; Frank Hogan, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Buck Rennall, of Lachine, Canada; Thos. [illegible], Buffalo; Fred. Struss, Buffalo; [illegible], Lachine; Geo. Palmer and wife, [illegible], Vt.; Ludson Morrison, Weiland, [illegible]; Jerome M. Eveson, wife and daughter, [illegible]; [illegible] England and wife, Chas. Crayon, Lachine; Edwd. Bearson, Buffalo; Jno. [illegible] and son, Ogdensburg; Noah Garraw, [illegible]; H. Matthan, Ogdensburg; Wm. [illegible], of Ogdensburg; Capt. Sam. Logan and [illegible] Logan, Morrisburg, Ont.

The Seymour had fine weather until after passing the Galloup Islands, off Sackett's harbor, when a gale from the northeast, with a heavy snow storm, set in. The tug and her tows got within five or six miles of Oswego when their lights were lost. The steamer endeavored to hold the fleet till daylight, but the sea and gale scattered it. Thirty-one persons, including three women and one girl, were drowned. The tug Chas. M. Kiter, of [illegible], which was picked up on the lake and towed into this port to-day was abandoned and half full of water. The engineer was saved and taken to Sackett's harbor.

An Effort to Remove Mayor Cooper.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A rumor published of the intended removal of Mayor Cooper [illegible] the plans discussed among high [illegible] and republican officials aiming to [illegible] his removal on charges of official dereliction.

[illegible] RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

[illegible] Statement of an Intricate Matter.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—The annual report of U. S. Treasurer Gillilan says that the aggregate of gold and silver bullion, including the standard silver dollars, being coined under the act of Jan. [illegible], which do not appear in statements prior to [illegible], are shown to have increased from $61,452,[illegible] to $114,464,[illegible] in 1877, to $163,960,444 in [illegible], and $222,807,368 in 1879. The note assets are [illegible] as follows on the above dates: In 1876, [illegible]; in 1877, $107,661,257; in 1878, $88,872,600; [illegible] $30,993,093.

The decrease in note balance arises from various causes, notably from receipts for customs and internal revenue, of coin paid out in purchase of bullion for coinage of standard silver dollars, from exchange of notes for gold and payment of notes for gold received at the assay office at New York, from the purchase of gold bullion with notes and payment of interest of the public debt in notes and from the payment of arrears of pensions. The most constant influence in the decrease of the note balance is that which proceeds from the purchase of silver bullion for coinage, thereby depriving the treasury of an equal amount of note receipts. All the above mentioned causes of diminution, except this, can be controlled by the department. Since resumption, however, the treasury is deprived by receipt of coin paid for bullion, of a like amount of U. S. notes amounting probably to 7 per cent of the annual revenues. The annual receipts from all sources are $291,[illegible]. Of this amount at least $34,000,000 is in silver dollars or in silver certificates, that being the minimum paid annually for silver bullion for coinage, which amount speedily finds its way into the treasury. The more certainly because the payments for bullion are made either at New York or San Francisco which are both centers of large receipts by the government. The maximum net note receipts are then 250,000,000, against which are payments of 267,000,000 for general expenditures, interest on the public debt, war and navy establishment and pensions made in notes, or if made in coin its return decreases the note receipts to that extent. The excess of note expenditures over note receipts is therefore $17,000,000, which is the annual decrease of note balance from silver dollar coinage alone. The treasurer says that under the rules of the New York clearing house [illegible] was to permit payment by the treasury of silver a certain percentage of balance in silver [illegible] may become necessary for the treasurer to [illegible] from a relation which renders over $[illegible] in gold money in its vaults unavailable for payments at New York, the point of the greatest disbursement.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Bad Advice to Turkey.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—A dispatch from Berlin says that Russia has advised Turkey to ask all signatories to the treaty of 1856 to dispatch squadrons to the Dardanelles in case the English fleet enters the straits. The whole of the St. Petersburg press is violent on the question.

Disaster on the Thames.

As the steamer Canada, Capt. Healey, for New York, was passing down the Thames she came in collision with the Woolwich steamboat Pierce, completely destroying it. The steamer proceeded, not having sustained any damage.

Heavy Failure.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 18.—Aofors, Hammerby & Co. have failed, liabilities seven million crowns.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

A Bad Fellow.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—Rosario Melie, the Italian desperado, now serving a sentence at San Quentin for several assaults to murder, robberies, etc., was brought before Commissioner O'Beirne to-day to be identified as a noted Italian bandit and murderer, whose extradition has been asked by the Italian government. The testimony tended directly to his identification, but it has not yet been determined whether he will be kept at San Quentin for the remainder of the term for which he was sentenced or be handed over to the Italian authorities. Melie was a member of the society on this coast, known as "La Maffia," consisting of Italians bound together for criminal purposes.

A Scheme to Adjust Overland Freight Rates.

General freight agent Vining, of the Union Pacific railway, arrived in this city yesterday, and has since been in conference with Mr. Stubbs, general freight agent of the C. P. R. R. A revision or modification of freight tariffs is in contemplation, and an exchange of views is likely to lead to important changes in the rates of freights from New York to San Francisco. After looking the field over and receiving the opinions of merchants, the question of renewing time contracts will be advanced.

Coll Deane Promises Developments.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—In consequence of recent moves in the stock market it is announced that on Thursday evening next Coll Deane will address Comstock shareholders at Union hall on the subject of three new bonanzas, their location and their management. Deane, it will be remembered, has stated both publicly and privately on a number of occasions, that there were at least three bonanzas in the Comstock lode which could be uncovered whenever the managers of the mines felt so disposed, and that unless something was done at an early day to uncover them he would make their whereabouts public in the interest of the shareholders. He now intends to carry out his promise.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Harbor Protection.

SEATTLE, Nov. 18.—Capt. Fox, of the ship Templar from San Francisco, was arrested this morning for dumping ballast from the ship during the night, while lying at the coal wharf, in violation of the city ordinance. He plead not guilty to the charge and gave bonds for his appearance before Judge Scott to-morrow.

The captain of the bark Lizzie Williams, from the same port, is also under bonds for his appearance on Saturday on a similar charge.

The Logging Interest on the Sound.

A million feet of logs, recently seized on the Snohomish river by a U. S. special agent of the interior department, for being cut in violation of the U. S. timber laws, sold yesterday at private sale to the Port Gamble Mill Company for four dollars per thousand feet, highest price now obtaining. This is the first instance where such logs have been sold here at market value, it usually being the custom to sell at auction, buyers clubbing together and bidding them in at from 20 to 25 cents per thousand. This and several other seizures, recently made here, have had the effect of putting a stop to illicit cutting of government timber, and general satisfaction is expressed among timber men at the result. The Puget Sound log crop last year amounted to 250,000,000 feet. Of this a surplus of twenty-five or thirty million feet now remain in the water, but will be entirely exhausted by spring. The average price obtained is $3 50 per thousand.

PENDING CHANGES IN CONGRESS.

[From the Chicago Times, Ind.]

By the popular decision of the recent elections, five of the six opposition senators from the north whose terms expire in 1881 are sentenced to retirement. They are: Thurman of Ohio, Eaton of Connecticut, Kernan of New York, Randolph of New Jersey, and Wallace of Pennsylvania. Every one of these senators spoke for and voted for the Bourbon programme to wipe out the national legislation of the war. The northern people have decided that every one of them shall retire and give place to a senator who will support and defend the political fruits of the war against reactionary Bourbonism.

At the south, the administration party will lose and the opposition gain one senator, in place of Bruce, of Mississippi. The senate, on the 4th of March, 1881, will therefore be made up of thirty-eight Bourbons, thirty-seven administrationists and one independent. Practically the Bourbons will have lost their majority in the senate. Their party in the senate will contain only seven senators from all the north—namely, McPherson of New Jersey, Pendleton of Ohio, McDonald and Voorhees of Indiana, Farley of California, and Grover and Slater of Oregon. Nearly five sevenths of what will remain of the bourbon party in the senate will be southern, while all but one of the republican party in the senate will be northern. A solid north against a solid south—this is the northern answer to the retrogressive action of the solid south.

It is also a foregone conclusion that the Bourbons will wholly lose their majority in the house by the next congressional election. This, too, is what the recent elections have determined. Their loss in New York and Pennsylvania alone will give a good "working majority" in the house to their adversaries; but they will also lose members in Ohio, in Illinois, in Wisconsin, and probably in other western states. This is as plainly forecast by the recent elections as any event of the future has ever been by the result of a political contest.

The lesson of the result is that the country will not trust its destiny to the direction of reactionary southern brigadiers and their northern allies. There is no reason to think it has any special affection for that which goes by the name of republican party; but there is good and ample reason to believe that the north will adhere with considerable solidity to that organization until something better appears to take its place, and whether that which offers to take its place be better or worse the north will judge. It is the plain judgment of the north that the Bourbon organization, composed in its controlling part of a retrogressive south, is not something better, but something a great deal worse. The Bourbon party and its reactionary doctrines are offensive. The country has a deep-rooted antipathy to them, which will not be removed by any programme the managers can devise. The country realizes no need of the Bourbon politicians of the Bourbon party. They are an obstruction that ought to be moved out of the way. They were dead twenty years ago. They ought not to linger unburied any longer. The stench of their decaying fragments poisons the political atmosphere and prevents healthful political progress. They are an offense in the nostrils of civilization. It is time this nuisance from the old Bourbon boneyard were abated.

A Novel Wooing.

[From the New York Sun.]

A handsome black walnut chamber set was exhibited by a Paterson furniture dealer at the Hohokus, New Jersey fair. It was much admired, and in a group of admirers were a young man and the young woman he had to the fair. He had been courting her for a long time, but he had never succeeded in getting his courage up to the point of asking her to be his. While admiring the walnut set, he inquired, doubtless without any ulterior motive: "How would you like such a set as that?" The young woman promptly answered that she would be almost willing to be married if she could begin housekeeping with such furniture. "I'll buy it if you'll marry me," the young man said with the air of one who had found a long sought opportunity. The answer was decisive and business-like: "You can't close this bargain any too soon." The wedding invitations are already sent out.

The Philadelphia Times (Ind.) speaks of "the starless midnight that envelopes the crushed democracy of the north." That's all right; let 'em grope.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER.

EXPLOSION IN A TUNNEL NEAR SAN JOSE.

A Party of Chinese Laborers Killed and Much Property Destroyed.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

SAN JOSE, Nov. 18.—An explosion occurred near San Jose at about 1 o'clock this morning in a tunnel of the narrow gauge railroad near Wright's station; 37 men were in the tunnel, 2 white and 35 Chinamen. The explosion was terrific and shook the mountain to its base. Rumors are circulating as to the number killed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—From additional reports concerning the explosion in a tunnel on the narrow gauge railroad it appears that three explosions occurred. The first took place at 11:50 P. M., the second at 11:55 P. M., and the third at 2:20 A. M. They were changing shifts at the time the first explosion took place. Seventeen Chinamen have been taken out, all horribly burned; twenty-four dead remain in the tunnel. A Chinaman named Ah Wo was taken out, burned about the chest and injured internally. He was found dead in his cabin an hour afterwards, strangled with a silk scarf. The Chinamen say that he hanged himself, but the indications are that he was strangled by his friends to put him out of misery.

There is a terrible scene of suffering in the camp and ruin all around the mouth of the tunnel. The engine for pumping air is disabled. Broken sheds and wrecked and broken timbers are scattered all around. Gas prevents any attempt to recover bodies at present. Work will be delayed two months. No blame is said to attach to the contractors.

It is believed that the white men taken from the tunnel will live, but several of the Chinamen brought out are fatally injured. The scene of the disaster is almost on top of the Santa Cruz mountains in a region where coal oil abounds and where boring for wells is actively prosecuted. There is a vein of oil running right through the tunnel and the soil can be ignited in places and will burn freely. Explosions of gas, and fires resulting from the same, have been of frequent occurrence there and have already resulted in the loss of several lives. The utmost precaution has been necessary in working there, and only by the use of air compressors has progress been possible. It is expected, however, that with a clear tunnel a natural current of air will be sufficient.

THE COMSTOCK LODE.

Reports from Various Levels and Crosscuts by Bob Pixley.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

VIRGINIA, Nov. 18.—Bob Pixley was in the Ophir to-day. He reports the bottom of the incline in very likely formation. Pitching to the east, it is soft vein matter carrying considerable quartz, and yielding low assays. The formation increases in value with the depth on the 2300-level. The joint Mexican crosscut west has passed through one stringer of low grade and is now in a second which comes in from the top and pitches from the west and yields fair assays. The next blast will take the face of this cross-cut entirely into this formation and indications are that it will be ore. On the 2100-foot level in a drift running north and east a fine formation of quartz and ore has been encountered which will mill forty to fifty dollars and is increasing in richness as penetrated prospects at this point are excellent. The Mexican drift on the 2300-foot level is in birdseye porphyry of exceedingly promising nature, it being partially decomposed. The cross-cut on the 2400-foot level is in a fine looking vein of matter carrying stringers of quartz.

Union raised the first car load of ore to-day which was dumped into the new ore house.

The Sierra Nevada cross-cut on the 2300-foot level has its face to-night in fine ore.

Consolidated Virginia shipped to-night $51,685 42, and Ophir, $27,747 71.

LITERARY NOTES.

Kossuth has arranged for the publication of essays, letters and memoirs, covering his career since 1859.

"The Life of Swift," which was begun by John Forster and of which one volume was printed before Mr. Forster's death, will be finished, it is again announced, from the materials that he left.

Mommsen's stay in Italy will be prolonged two years, during which the historian will make a thorough study of the Italian antiquities. At present he is engaged on the fourth volume of his great history, which will treat of the early Cæsars.

From a work on feudal customs which has just come out in Paris, it appears that since Napoleon I. came to the throne, 2319 titles of hereditary nobility have been conferred upon citizens of France. Napoleon himself, during his short reign, created nine princes, 32 dukes, 388 counts and 1,090 barons.

Evelyn's "Diary," very properly, is not to be outdone by Pepys'. An edition in four handsome octavo volumes with illustrations, and to be uniform with the elegant edition of Pepys that was completed last year, is announced as in preparation in London. Evelyn's correspondence and a memoir will be included.

Mr. Welford writes to The Book-Buyer that Kinglake will bring to a close his "Invasion of the Crimea" in a single additional volume treating of "Winter Troubles" and leaving off at the darkest period of the whole story. Mr. Welford adds that "it is certainly unfortunate that this classic history was begun upon so large a scale as to weary out its author in the very midst of his subject."

M. Zola's new novel, "Nana," which is now running as a serial in the Voltaire, has caused the circulation of that paper suddenly to increase from 10,000 to 50,000. The cost of advertising and puffing the book has already amounted $20,000. Meanwhile the Paris correspondent of a Manchester paper pronounces the novel "the filthiest production the world ever saw," and says it "gives the century the character of being besotted with animalism."

A book about to appear in London is "The History of the Precious Metals," by Mr. Alexander Delmar, a member of the United States Monetary Commission of 1876, in which the author traces the history of the stock of coined silver and gold now in the possession of civilized states from the earliest period. Since the publication of Mr. William Jacob's work on the subject, in 1831, no book covering the same ground has appeared in England.

Grant's Finances.

In conversation with a correspondent Gen. Grant alluded freely to his financial affairs. Being asked if it would not be hard for him to content himself in Galena as a place of residence, he said:

"No, I think not. When I was in Japan I went up in the mountains and stayed ten days almost alone. It was a novel experience for me, but I enjoyed it. I shall not be able to do much more than [illegible] Galena my home after a while. It is a good place to live now, as on my income I can live there much cheaper than in a large city, and live better than most of my neighbors there. My income is not large enough for me to live as I would like, and I would like to find something to do after a while. I have two farms near St. Louis, and some real estate in Chicago, which I would sell if I would feel better of it. My land in Chicago is 31 acres, just outside the western limits of Chicago. Eleven years ago I was offered $1500 an acre for it, and now, after paying taxes on it all that time, I couldn't get $250 an acre for it. But I did better in some other investments, or I could never have traveled abroad as long as I have. I had stock in the Adams Express Company, which went up; and I bought right after the fire in Virginia City, Nev., Union and [illegible] stock, when it had gone down from $700 a share to $30, and made $30,000 [illegible] there."

Accumulation of Silver Dollars.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—A Herald Washington special says: It is understood that Sherman will urgently recommend in his annual report the repeal of the law making it mandatory upon the treasury department to coin standard silver dollars. He will show that not one-fourth of the amount already coined has gone into circulation, and its accumulation is not only becoming a source of annoyance to the treasury, but the currency is being locked up in the most unsatisfactory manner by the provisions of the law requiring the monthly coinage of not less than two millions of standard silver dollars, besides imposing a needless tax upon the capacity of the mint. A discontinuance of the coinage of silver would enable the mint at Philadelphia to coin the large amount of gold which has accumulated this fall.

FROM THE NORTH.

Arrival of the California at Port Townsend—Mining and General News from Alaska.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., Nov. 18.—The steamer California, which arrived this evening from Sitka, reports very strong southerly winds and stormy weather. The California landed the new engine and boilers for the A. G. A. S. M. Co., at their wharf in Silver bay. Superintendent Pilz will have it running in five weeks. Oil in the Stewart improves as they go in. The Stewart ships its third bar of gold, value $800, having run three days when the water source froze.

The directors of the Great Eastern have resolved to commence work early in the spring, and have levied an assessment of fifty dollars per share for the erection of a mill.

Haley and the owners of the Witch have sent to Oregon for mules, and will start four arastras on the return of the California.

The U. S. marshal is on board the California with Jack Williams, who shot Robert Roy. Williams will be tried in Portland. Roy will probably recover, although affected with hemorrhage of the lungs, and too weak to come down as a witness.

Paymaster Ring, of the Jamestown, is aboard en route to San Francisco for funds.

Lieut. Ellsworth, of the marines, is also on board in charge of five prisoners for Benicia, and Jack Feigh with the body of James Burns which he packed on sleds a distance of two hundred miles.

John Muir has not returned from the Chilcat country. He has been heard from twice. The Indians up to that time were peaceably inclined.

Fifty miners went up from Wrangle to winter in Sitka.

The California brings forty-two thousand dollars in treasure from Cassiar and Sitka.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

THE SITUATION AS VIEWED BY A MAN ENDEAVORING TO STRUGGLE INTO A SITTING POSITION AFTER A REGULAR KNOCK-DOWN BLOW.

[From the Louisville Courier-Journal (Dem.)]

The honest thinking masses of the people must seek among themselves in the present emergency if they expect to find good counsels. They will look in vain to Washington. On the democratic side of the senate there are many brilliant men, very, very few wise ones. In the house it is simply chaos. For two years there has been but one main spring of action among these master-spirits of party anarchism, and that, some way to rid themselves of the one central figure, which offered us at once a candidate and an issue; the one shadow across the republican line of march; the one lion in the path of the usurpers who hold possession of the government. We say this sadly, and not in anger, for it is the truth. The republican managers have from the first realized their danger, and, with characteristic prudence, have most warily provided against it. Had the democratic leaders minded their party and their country with half the attention they have bestowed upon themselves, they would have seen their folly, and learned their lesson in the open book the enemy set before them. Instead of doing so, for each page of sagacious cunning filled in by the republicans they have supplied another blazoned by a most selfish and exasperating stupidity. The consequences have been as swift as they were sure. The tale, begun by Ohio, is ended by New York.

We may be sure that the self-seeking and the blundering, which have brought about this needless disaster, and which, in too many cases, may be supposed, without injustice, to take a secret delight in it, will not resolve themselves into any definite policy. They will express themselves variously. There will be booms and booms, as they are called. We shall have a Bayard boom. We shall have a Davis boom. We shall have a Field boom. We shall have a Hancock boom. There may even be, in a small way, a Hendricks boom, dividing its little time with a Kelly boom; in the west, Hendricks and Kelly; in the east, Kelly and Hendricks. In short, each cock will crow from his particular dung-hill, filling the air with a clamor, from whose dissonance and din but a single accordant note shall be heard, and that in dispraise of the only man who is guiltless of an act or a word to distract his party, and known chiefly through his sacrifices and benefices.

To this complexion has it come at last, and we are asked to abandon a leader who gives us a national victory, and to follow the leaders who have wantonly thrown that victory away.

There are many good and true men in the Democratic party who are worthy to wear the purple; notably Senator Bayard, Gen. Hancock and Mr. Justice Field. But there is no one of them who ever will, or ever can, reach the White House over the dead body of Mr. Tilden. The Democratic party itself can not hope to return to power as an appendage to Tammany Hall. The odor which Tweed created is but renewed by Kelly. The coming presidential battle may be surrendered in advance. But, if it is to be fought with the hope of winning it, the plan of campaign must not be dictated, as the rejection of Tilden will imply, by the men who have purposely lost us this important contest for position. Mr. Tilden can be set aside only for cause; and there are honest democrats enough to look to it that no specious or light cause—no suggestions of expediency from quack statesmen affecting disinterestedness—shall suffice. There is a principle at stake as well as a policy, and the small plotters who have encouraged the conspiracy which has cost us New York will find, before they are half done, that the courage and persistence will not be wanting to right all the wrongs that have been perpetrated, and to settle the account with them besides.

CLEOPATRA'S NEEDLE.

APPEARANCE OF THE MONOLITH—ITS HISTORICAL INTEREST AND CHARACTER.

[Gen. Loring of the Egyptian Army in the St. Paul Pioneer Press.]

"How is that obelisk regarded in Egypt?"

"It is the only object of great historical interest left in Alexandria, and it won't be there long. It is the first object you see in approaching the city from the sea. The obelisk that went to England had been buried for a hundred years in the sand some thirty feet from the one standing. Both were brought from Heliopolis by Cleopatra and placed in front of the palace of the Cæsars. The New York obelisk is much better preserved than the English trophy, and the writing on it is more distinct. It is one of the oldest obelisks in the world, and it was constructed during that splendid era of art of the twelfth dynasty, a thousand years before Joseph. Not a man in Egypt could realize that the khedive had given it away. They were all wonder-struck. When England was moving her obelisk there was general rejoicing in Egypt when the rumor came back that it was lost in the sea."

"What is the color of the New York obelisk?"

"It is the color of a brown stone front on Fifth avenue. It came from the famous quarry 600 miles above Cairo. I think it is about seventy feet high. The granite, fresh from the quarry, sparkles like jewels. The grandest of all obelisks is still sacred in the Temple at Karnak. It is a hundred feet high, and is the most beautifully cut and engraved of all known obelisks. The one in Paris was in this temple, and is the second in hight in the world. There is one in the quarry like the one at Karnak. The New York obelisk is a thousand years older than either of the others. The most interesting one, historically, is still at Heliopolis. It was cut 3,000 years B. C. and preserves all the style and grandeur of the finest sculpture of that brilliant epoch of Egyptian art. It is the only object left of the splendid city of the sun. It stood in front of the Temple of the Sun, of which Joseph's father was the priest, where Moses learned his Egyptian wisdom, and where Plato, Solon and Pythagoras learned their philosophy."

On to Washington.

[From the Burlington Hawkeye.]

The solid north is marching to the relief of the beleaguered capital and in 1881 will drive the usurpers across the Potomac, nor stop until the flag of the union, with all that its stars and stripes imply, is freely unfurled in every hamlet and school district of the sunny south.

Appeals are being made to the women of the United States to reward Susan, sister of the Ute chief Ouray, who protected Mrs. Meeker and daughters from the savage Utes, but an appropriate form has not been seriously suggested.

AND THIS IS CALLED "HISTORY."

The following romance is furnished by the Washington correspondent of the Army and Navy Journal. He is said to be "an old army officer." Few people in Oregon have heard of the "noble heroism" of these three Cayuse Indians who are said to have voluntarily sacrificed their lives to propitiate the whites. The scurrilous remarks about Oregon City are pretty well in the line of the general romance. The "old army officer," doubtless is some sutler's clerk who has sunk to the level of the poor Bohemian, and who lives on free lunches and draws on his imagination for his facts. Here is his article:

The first settlements in Oregon, some thirty years ago, were made by a colony of Methodists. One of the principal men among them was the late Mr. or Governor Abernethy, as he was called, as he was for a short time the provisional governor of Oregon. He was the father in law of our genial Deputy Quartermaster General Henry C. Hodges, an excellent man, and he must not be remembered as one of those who was responsible for the shocking proceedings which we are about to relate. A minister by the name of Whitman we believe, had gone up to the Walla Walla region, where he was kindly received by the Cayuse and other friendly Indians, who, while they did not particularly desire to be converted to the Christian faith as expounded by one of Wesley's followers, saw no special objection to the presence of the missionary. So they lived quietly along for a year or two; then the measles broke out among the Indians, and a large number of them were carried off. They were told by their medicine men that the disease was owing to the presence of the whites, and Mr. Whitman was notified that he must leave their country. Filled with zeal for the cause and not having sense enough to grasp the situation, he refused to go.

At this time the people of the Hudson's Bay Company had great influence with all the Indians in that region, and the good old Governor Peter Skeen Ogden was the chief factor of the company at Fort Vancouver. He was apprised of the state of feeling among the Indians near the mission by the Indians themselves, and he was entreated by them to urge Whitman to go away, for if he did not he would surely be killed. The governor wrote up to the mission advising them to leave, for a while at least, until the Indians should become quiet, which they would do as soon as the measles had run its course among them. His efforts were useless, and sure enough one day in 1847, we believe, the mission was cleaned out, the missionary and nearly all of those connected with it being killed.

An Indian war follows. This was carried on for some months, and with little damage, but sufficient for a claim by the territory upon the general government for untold amounts of money. Two or three years later, when the country had commenced to fill up with emigration, and the regiment of Mounted Riflemen and two companies of the 1st Artillery had taken post in Oregon, the people began to think that it would be well to stir up the matter of the murder of the Whitman family. Gen. Jo. Lane had been sent out as governor in 1849, and he doubtless thought it would be a good thing for him politically to humor the people of the territory. Lane was a vigorous, resolute, western man, who had been a general officer during the Mexican war, and he then had presidential aspirations. So the governor came to Fort Vancouver, where the headquarters of the department were established, under Col. Loring, of the Mounted Rifles, and procured a small escort, with which he proceeded to hunt up the Indians concerned in the massacre, and demand their surrender. By this time the Indians had begun to comprehend the power of the government, and when the governor found them and explained the nature of his mission they went into council to decide what was to be done. After due deliberation they were convinced that if they were to refuse to come to any terms they would be attacked by the soldiers, of whom they then had deadly fear, and obliged to abandon their country forever. So they met the governor, and the head chief said that they had heard what he had to say. It was true that his people had killed the whites at the mission, but that they did so for the reason that they really thought that a terrible disease had been brought among them by the whites; that they had begged them to go away from them, for they did not wish to kill them, and that they only killed them to save their own lives, as they thought. He said that for this the whites from down the Columbia had made war upon them and killed many more of their people than had been killed at the mission, and they thought they ought to be satisfied. As they were not, three of their principal men had volunteered to go back with the governor to Oregon City to be tried for the murder. This satisfied the governor, and the men bid farewell to their wives and little ones and to all their tribe, for they very well knew that they would never see them again. They knew that they were going among those who thirsted for their blood and that they were going to their death, and that death the most ignominious that can be accorded to the red man, as they were to be hung like dogs.

The governor and his party left. The victims gave one long last look at the shore as they took the little boat on the Columbia, but no word of complaint ever came from their lips. When they arrived at Fort Vancouver we had charge of these Indians. They were not restrained in any way, no guard was ever kept over them, for there was no power on earth that could have made them falter in their determination to go down to Oregon City and die like men for the salvation of their tribe.

At Oregon City these men walked with their heads erect and with the bearing of senators, from the little boat, amid the jibes and jeers of a brutal crowd, to the jail which was to be the last covering they would ever have over their heads.

The trial came on, the jury was empaneled, and Captain Claiborne of the Mounted Rifles, volunteered to defend the Indians, who were told that they were to have a fair trial and that they would not be punished unless they were found guilty. To all this they paid no heed. They said it was all right, but they did not understand a word of what they were compelled to listen to for several days, and they cared nothing for the forms of the law. They had come to die and when some witnesses swore that they recognized them as the very Indians who killed Whitman—all of which was explained to them—not a muscle of their faces changed, although it was more than suspected that the witnesses were never near the mission at the time of the massacre. The trial was over, and, of course, the Indians were condemned to be hanged. Without a murmur or sigh of regret, and with a dignity that would have impressed Zulu with profound pity, these men walked to the gallows and were hung, while a crowd of civilized Americans—men, women and children of the nineteenth century—looked on and laughed at their last convulsive twitches.

We have read of heroes of all times, but never did we read of, or believe, that such heroism as these Indians exhibited could exist. They knew that to be accused was to be condemned, and they would be executed in the civilized town of Oregon City, just as surely as would a poor woman accused of being a witch have been executed in the civilized and Christian town of Salem, in the good state of Massachusetts two hundred years ago.

A generation has passed away since the execution or murder of the Indians at Oregon City. Governor Lane still lives, not as ex-president, but as a poor but vigorous old man down in the Rogue river valley. The little nasty town of Oregon City was the scene of a self-immolation as great as any of which we read in history, and there were not three persons there who appreciated it. The accused, I was told, were, still nastier than ever, and the intelligent jury—no man of whom dared to have a word of pity or admiration for those poor Indians—with the spectators of that horrid scene, are either dead and damned, or they are sunk in the oblivion that is the fate of those who are born without souls.

New York World: An indefatigable mamma, who has succeeded in getting her own seven daughters "well off her hands," has determined to extend to others the benefit of her system. She is going to open a class for the instruction of young ladies in the art of husband catching. It is to be called the "School of Design."

Some of the Troubles of the Democracy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Representative Buckner, chairman of the committee on currency and banking, is in town to investigate the affairs of the national banks doing business here. The World reads him a sharp lecture, concluding thus: "New York, it must be borne in mind, is not a provincial but is a metropolitan state. She is the most powerful state in this union. Her feet cannot be swept from under her by the cry of solid south or by the waving of the bloody shirt, or by the western patent medicine clamor for a new way to pay old debts. No man will be president without the vote of New York in 1880, and no man will get that vote, be he republican or democrat, who lacks a solid record for honest money and a temper which will make New York feel assured that he cannot be cajoled or bullied by communists or debt-shirkers. If the democratic party of New York had suspected Gov. Robinson of sympathy with the views which Buckner is reported to have expressed in this city, about fifteen minutes would have sufficed to count his ballots one week ago to-night."

The Chile-Peru War—The Winning Hand Apparently Held by the Chileans.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Tribune reporter interviewed Nunez, of the Chilean legation, who said: By capturing the port of Pisagua the Chileans have placed themselves between the Peruvian forces at Arica, Tacna and Iquique. At Arica and Tacna, which is some distance inland, the Peruvians have about 12,000 men. At Iquique they have probably 6000. It will now be in the power of the Chileans, as they have command of the sea, to cut off supplies from the troops at Iquique and thus compel them to surrender. They may also undertake operations against the forces of Arica, which the Peruvians will be unable to reinforce from Iquique. Chile has not so far borrowed a dollar. She has paid her way by issuing greenbacks. Peru is greatly crippled. She has not paid the interest on her public debt, which is $200,000,000, since 1876. Nunez explains that the aim of Peru was to obtain complete control of the nitrate trade, and that the people in the disputed territory are nearly all Chileans. He expects that the recent successes will compel Peru to sue for peace.

An English clergyman recently committed suicide in the Isle of Wight by sliding down a cliff 600 feet high.

Prof. Baird, the head of the United States fish commission, will open a station at Newport, R. I., next year.

Victoria Woodhull and Tennie C. Claflin have not yet slipped matrimonial loops over those two alleged English lords.

Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris will sail for this country so as to join her father and mother when they arrive in Washington.

A female witness in the Edinburgh police court, on being asked what was her husband's profession, answered promptly: "My husband is a bankrupt, sir!"

Says Wade Hampton: "We are solid for home rule and the democratic party." The north, it is observed, is solid for the Nation with a large N, and against the democratic party.

Mrs. George Francis Train, who died suddenly in New York recently, was the daughter of George T. M. Davis, once editor of the Alton (Ill.) Telegraph, but now a lawyer of New York city.

The amount of treasure captured by the British at Cabul has been greatly overestimated. It was but eight lacs of rupees, or about $400,000, and not between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, as reported.

Relics of the Donner Party.

[From the Truckee Republican.]

Relics of the unfortunate Donner party have recently been unearthed. The publishers of the Donner History incurred the expense of bringing some of the survivors to Donner Lake, and through their assistance marked out the boundaries of the cabins. Digging in the earth that thirty-two years ago formed the cabin floors, the most interesting articles were found. A cabinet containing nearly two hundred of these articles has been formed by the author of the history, and is now at the Truckee Hotel. The spoons, the knives and forks with which the poor emigrants ate the scanty food they possessed, are now rust eaten until only the outlines appear. Among the relics are the beads they wore as ornaments, pieces of looking-glasses which reflected their sunken, starved features and of the pretty porcelain plates and cups and saucers which in those days were so highly prized. Many other little articles are among the collection.

PARLEYING WITH THE UTES

Dispatches seem to indicate that the negotiation with the Utes will not end in amicable adjustment Government can not give up its purpose to punish the leaders of the outbreak and the perpetrators of the massacre and the guilty Indians are not disposed to submit to the punishment due to their crimes The penalty will be death to a considerable number and those upon whom it must be executed are able as yet to maintain their influence and authority with the tribe and perhaps will have power to carry the tribe or a large part of it into further hostilities It is evident that the tribe is not yet ready to surrender the malefactors and government can not abandon its requirement of surrender without doing outrage to justice and impairing its own authority with the tribe for the future Heretofore the Indians have manifested some respect for the authority of Ouray He is not, however the hereditary chief but a common Indian who owes his position mainly to the favor and influence of the government. The White river Indians who were engaged in the revolt belonged to a different agency from that at which he resides but his Indians sympathize with their White river kin and are doing all in their power to protect them from punishment The White river band have no recognized chief of their own but only the sub-chiefs who have been among the foremost to incite the revolt In plain terms these bloody-handed Indians are not going to surrender meekly in order to be hung either at the request of Ouray or of anybody else. And Ouray has not sufficient authority and power to compel their surrender It is almost ridiculous for the government to have supposed that the guilty ones would consent to be hanged Neither General Sherman nor General Sheridan had any faith in the result of the Adams mission. But the officers of the Indian department seem to have imagined that a peace embassy was just the thing It has, indeed accomplished one good result,—it has rescued the women and children who were held as prisoners and therefore to this extent it was a proper, humane and wise undertaking But it is not likely that any further good can result from it, except perhaps to keep the trouble within its present bounds It is pretty clear that the army must do the rest But it is not going to be an easy thing to hunt these bands out of their mountain recesses If hostilities are renewed, these Indians who have already shown themselves so desperate for slight causes will fight to the bitter end It may cost many lives, but there will be compensation in the fact that if the contest is prolonged and severe the resulting peace will be more complete and permanent Further parley with these Indians would seem to be quite useless, unless by some strategy an advantage can be secured over them but this is quite improbable, as they are too wily to be entrapped. In a case like this the best that can be done is to detach from the hostile band as many of their fellows as possible, to confine the disaffection within the narrowest possible limits, and then to pursue relentlessly those who have chosen war instead of peace

HISTORY OF THE DRED SCOTT DECISION

In the biography of the late Justice Curtis, recently published, a chapter is devoted to a history of the preparation of the Dred Scott decision,—a decision which must be reckoned as among the precipitating causes of our civil war This "inside history" shows that the original opinion in the Dred Scott case was prepared by Justice Nelson Had this opinion stood as that of the majority for which it was written it would have called forth no expression of judicial views on the constitutionality of the Missouri compromise act But after this opinion was written a motion was made in a conference of the court for a reargument of the case at the next term. This motion prevailed. Judge Nelson's opinion was set aside, and two questions were framed by the chief justice to be argued de novo at the bar These questions involved the facts set up in the plea to the jurisdiction, and the power of the court to take notice of and determine the citizenship of the plaintiff on those facts, after that plea had been overruled by the circuit court, and the defendant had been ordered to plead to the merits. If the facts could be noticed, and amounted to proof in law that Dred Scott was not a citizen, the court had no jurisdiction. But if on the facts he should be held to be a citizen, then the merits could be gone into and the validity of the Missouri compromise restriction became a question before the court On this basis the case was reargued. It was held that Dred Scott was not a citizen, but the court notwithstanding assumed jurisdiction on the merits. This result, the biographer of Justice Curtis shows, was brought about by the influence of Justice Wayne, who had convinced himself that the "peace and harmony of the country" required a judicial "decision" to the effect that congress had no constitutional power to prohibit the introduction of slavery in the territories. With his impulsive and impassioned ways of treating such a question, he succeeded in magnetizing Taney, who could only have been mastered by Wayne's appeal to his feelings—to that kindness and benevolence toward all human beings which so eminently distinguished that great jurist. On this state of the case the Albany Law Journal, reviewing the statements of the biographer of Justice Curtis, considers it not surprising that Justice Wayne should have carried his colleagues Grier and Catron with him, as they had a good many of the same qualities of mind and disposition that were conspicuous in their sanguine and enthusiastic colleague But Taney's nature was different, and he for once sank his judicial in his political character, because he thought the end that seemed to him desirable justified the means by which he proposed to attain it.

Only four of the famous obelisks erected in the time of Thothmes III, of Egypt, are known to exist By a strange and significant destiny, remarks the New York World a journal that has taken a lively interest in the matter, it has been reserved for them to represent in the four successive historical capitals of our modern civilization the arts and the wisdom of Egypt One stands at Rome in front of the basilica of St John Lateran having been conveyed to the eternal city by the Emperor Constantius. One stands at Constantinople, in the Atmeidan, having been first removed from Heliopolis to Karnak and thence again to its present site by Constantine the Great One stands at London on the great embankment of the Thames where it was set up after an adventurous voyage a little more than a year ago. The fourth and on many accounts the most interesting of them all is now on the point of being removed from Alexandria to New York by Lieutenant Commander Gorringe.

A telegram from New York in a recent number of the Cincinnati Commercial, probably from Mr Halstead the editor who was in that city when Blaine spoke there just before the late election says that the man from Maine was received with an enthusiasm that exceeded even his Ohio experience and equaled that in Iowa that in the Cooper Institute meeting the battle was fairly joined between the Grant and Blaine men, and that the advantage was surprisingly with the latter Referring to the rumor that Blaine was yielding to the boom for Grant and would join and lead it Mr Halstead says He may have had a few moments of weakness on this subject while he was in Ohio but he is strong now ever stalwart —and unalterably resolved to stand as a presidential candidate no matter who opposes This is known to be true of Sherman also

WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 19, 1879.

CITY.

Christian Church Entertainment.—The entertainment at Masonic Hall last evening was largely attended, and all present appeared to enjoy themselves extremely well. The ladies having the matter in charge spared no pains in order to render the gathering a pleasant one socially and otherwise. The programme of literary and musical exercises was exceedingly well rendered throughout, and gave evident satisfaction to the hearers. At the conclusion of these exercises coffee, sandwiches, cakes, ice cream and other delicacies were served in abundance. The social can be said to be a decided success in every particular. The ladies request us to express their thanks to the public for their liberal patronage, and particularly to all those who so kindly participated in the exercises, also to C. T. Belcher & Co., C. C. Morse, I. F. Powers, John Donnerberg and many others for substantial favors.

Bark "Zaroya."—A San Francisco exchange of the 12th contains the following in regard to the bark Zaroya: "The bark Zaroya, Capt. Hunter, arrived in this port yesterday, from Astoria, in a leaky condition. Following are her memoranda: Sailed October 21st for Cork. November 3d, heavy gales from south-southeast, and heavy sea; vessel making more water than usual; wheat coming up to the pumps, and finally choked; jettisoned 31 tons of cargo, more or less. On November 5th, heavy gale from the south to south south east, and heavy weather continued, and concluded to put into this port in consequence of the pumps being choked."

A Proper Rebuke.—Says a contemporary: "Smoking either cigars or pipes by the drivers of vehicles and attendants at a funeral during the passage of the procession through the principal streets of the city is not calculated to create a feeling of respect in the breasts of spectators for those who outrage common decency on so solemn an occasion. To the honor of the people be it said, such instances are of rare occurrence in Portland, though sometimes exceptions may be seen. It is hoped they will be still rarer after the publication of this notice."

From Astoria.—The following specials to the Merchants' Exchange were received from Astoria yesterday: 8 A. M.—Clear, stiff northeast wind. Barkentine Melancthon and [illegible] for San Francisco, crossed out yesterday, 2 P. M.—Bark Rival coming in now. Norwegian bark Gungner and British ship Isle of Bute crossed out this morning.

Collision Between Ships.—A dispatch from Astoria, dated 2:10 P. M., yesterday to the Merchants' Exchange says that the British ship Millwall and City of Cashmere got afoul of each other, that the latter lost her jibboom, [illegible] and one anchor, and the former one anchor.

For Honolulu.—The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg will leave this port for Honolulu at 1 o'clock this afternoon, with a full cargo and quite a number of passengers. She will also take several passengers from Astoria.

On the Way.—A half breed named Jack [illegible] arrived here last evening in custody of a deputy sheriff, on the way to Salem. [illegible] stole a horse and Judge McArthur gave him three years for the experiment.

Gone to Oregon City.—W. S. Ladd and [illegible] Lamson went to Oregon City yesterday to draw the required number of jurors as provided for by the recent law of congress. They returned to the city last evening.

Convicted and Sentenced.—Ah Quong [illegible] of larceny, was sentenced to the penitentiary to-day for five years. Hogan and Usher for a similar offense, received each three years in the same institution.

For China.—The bark Coloma, now lying at the foot of Alder street, will leave this afternoon, carrying four hundred Chinamen and a heavy cargo of lumber.

THE WALKING MATCH.

Interest Unabated in the Contests and Trials of Endurance now in Progress at Turn Halle and New Armory.

Since the advent of the walkists in this city our citizens have been taken, one and all, with the walking mania, and the interest displayed by them in the various contests at armory hall has been the subject for some wonder, many expressing the opinion that if the tournaments there continue much longer there will be a marked falling off in the various professions to adopt that of pedestrianism.

The assemblage last evening was as large as on any previous evening, to witness the opening of the seventy-five hour "go as you please" contest between Miss Von Berg and C. B. Sturges, of this city. At 8:00 the contestants were started by Mr. Geo. W. Lee, who stated the rules governing this as well as all matches of this kind. At the word both started off at a moderate gait, Sturges taking the lead, which he has maintained till the present writing. This match will cause some speculation in sporting circles, as Sturges and Miss Von Berg are known to be well matched in regard to speed and endurance. During this walk Mr. Sturges will be under the care of Mr. Fulton, a young man who has had considerable experience as a trainer, and who has met with admirable success. Up to this time neither has shown a disposition to force the other each being willing to be left alone and not desirous to indulge in any "spurts."

They have completed 20 miles at an average rate of 4 miles per hour, and if they continue at this gait Miss Von Berg will have beaten her former record of 190 miles, the best ever made, a feat which she has been very desirous of accomplishing, but has been so unfortunate up to this time in this city. The lady feels in first rate spirits and will surprise those who were so willing at first to condemn her. She has remarkable powers of endurance and on this occasion will endeavor to regale the people of this city with such an exhibition of her wonderful powers as was never seen here before.

The quarter mile walkists are still as lively as crickets, and walk with their usually pleasant and easy manner without showing the least signs of what they have undergone in their ordeal. On the contrary, Miss Wiley yesterday signified her determination to continue the walk to 2000 quarters instead of 1500; and the plucky Miss Florence, not to be outdone, agreed if possible to beat that and score to her credit 2400, a feat terrible to contemplate, but one which she is confident she can accomplish. As there is now a rivalry between the fair pedestriennes, some interesting developments of their powers as walkists may come to the surface and give the public a chance to witness to what extent a strong determination can compel nature to subserve it.

On Saturday evening the following members of the various military companies will compete for a prize in a 75 hour's walk: City Rifles, Capt. Hart, H. Gerr and A. Campbell; Emmet Guards, Capt. Elston, Wm. Brown and Nicholas Donegan. The Washington Guards and Mounted Battery will probably produce candidates for the honors by this evening.

At Turn Halle.

There was the usual large attendance at Turn Halle last night, to see the last few hours of the great one thousand quarter mile test of endurance, the exhibition walks, and the running race. Misses Alice Donley and Lillie Denman by the time THE OREGONIAN is read to-day, will have completed the task which, at the start, seemed appalling, and which five years ago would have been thought impossible. That they have walk one quarter of a mile every fifteen minutes for the last ten days, there is not the least doubt. The scorers are gentlemen of integrity, and would, if necessary, attach their affidavits to such a statement. Both ladies, of course, are tired but are in no wise exhausted, and stepped around the track with nearly as much spirit as on the opening night. At 8 o'clock Sadie Donley began a five mile walk which she finished in 58:30. Emmet Fitzgerald and Al. Radderly then ran five miles, Fitzgerald giving the finest exhibition of running ever seen here, making his five miles in 33:05, and beating Kadderly half a mile. The following is the score by miles:

Fitzgerald—6:38, 6:52, 6:46, 6:24, 6:25. Total, 33:05.
Kadderly—6:53, 7:28, 7:22, 7:38, 7:01. Total, 36:29.

Miss Sherman then walked five miles in 54:55. Sadie Donley then "went as she pleased" one mile in 9:42.

TO-NIGHT'S PROGRAMME.

At 8 o'clock, a five mile run will take place between Emmet Fitzgerald, Geo. Zeller, Al. Kadderly, Otto Brunz and Neil McCafferty, and will be watched with much interest. At 9 o'clock, two amateurs will walk a two mile race, after which Misses Sherman and Sadie Donley, will give exhibition walks.

At 11 o'clock the great seventy-two hour "go as you please" contest between five, and probably six members of the fire department, will commence. The contestants will be called at 10:45 and given instructions governing the race. One third of the gross receipts will be divided as follows: 40 per cent. to the first man in the race, 25 per cent. to the second, 17½ per cent to the third, and 17½ per cent to the Firemen's Mutual Aid Society. It is safe to say that the hall will scarcely hold the crowd to-night.

At 12 o'clock last night Messrs. Love & Thall, the managers of the Turn Halle walks, served about a barrel of delicious clam chowder to an immense delegation of the boys, who proved equal to the occasion, and enjoyed the spread immensely.

They have fixed the price of their lands within the 40 miles limits of their present located line at $3 per acre, cash, and $4 per acre on time, charging 7 per cent. per annum on deferred payments. D. C. Lewis and W. H. Cushman, will have charge of the office.

A Walla Walla paper reports that the amount of wheat sown at this time is not large and the most of that in the ground is just coming up. There is a vast amount of preparation being made to put in a large crop. The people on Middle Touchet have done very little plowing as yet, the ground having remained too dry to plow up to ten or twelve days ago. The late rains have set the plows to work in good earnest in the section named.

A gentleman who has recently visited Chief Moses and his people reports that the Indians under the control of Chief Moses are all doing well and contented with the arrangement. They supply the new military post at Lake Chelan with oats, for which they obtain four cents per pound. They have to pack it a long distance on their horses, hence the high price. Mr. Frush, who is the best Indian linguist on this coast, had a long interview with Moses and Smo-halla in their own vernacular. They both express themselves as being satisfied, but complain that there is a very apparent determination on the part of certain whites to bring on trouble by annoying them in every possible way; they wish to cause a number of Moses' Indians to leave him and go elsewhere, for reasons they know best.

The Fence Question.

[From the Walla Walla Union.]

The fence question will form a prominent topic in eastern Washington politics next year. Then, all who favor the conversion of the hundreds of thousands of acres of bunch grass land, now occupied by a few thousand cattle and sheep belonging to men who do not own one acre in a thousand that they use, into fields of waving grain, dotted with farm houses inhabited by happy, prosperous men, women and children, beautified with orchards, while here and there a schoolhouse gives evidence of the intelligence of the community, will be found advocating a "no fence law." On the other side will be found all those whose interests are in the rearing of cattle and sheep, and a few pioneer farmers, who having complied with the laws of the land at great expense by fencing their acres, now fear to compete with the new comer who would not have to fence, if the law was changed.

DR. SLADE,

The celebrated medium, will be at St. Charles Hotel Friday evening, Nov. 21st, and can be on his return from the Sound, and can be consulted daily from 9 A. M. to 9 P. M. This will be the last opportunity of consulting this world-renowned medium previous to his departure for his home in the east.

THE GREAT HEALER RETURNED TO PORTLAND.

Dr. C. M. Wood, the celebrated magnetic operator, has commenced practicing at No. 145½ Third street, between Morrison and Alder streets; office over Olds & King's store, where he will heal the sick of all chronic diseases by magnetic treatment. Dr. Wood's marvelous cures have been published through THE OREGONIAN for the past three years, and have never been equaled by any other physician on this coast. Send for circulars of the most wonderful cures on record, made in Oregon and Washington territory. Office hours from 9 A. M. to 12 M. and from 1 to 5 P. M.

WM. SCHEFFLER'S ST. HELENA

SANITARY, VACUUM DISTILLED GRAPE BRANDY AND GOOD OLD EDGE HILL WINES.

Mr. Scheffler is sole proprietor of the principle known as the vacuum process of distilling, by which the fusil oils are left with the residue and not incorporated with the brandy, leaving it pure and free from all deleterious substances which does and must exist in all alcoholic liquors distilled by the usual process of boiling heat. California Physicians have pronounced their preference of it to all other. Doctor Cox, government revenue officer at Cincinnati, Ohio, says in his report, that after ten years' of close investigation, he can safely say that very few, if any, pure wines or brandy are exported from the Old Continent to this. He has found none in his many analyses—that all are doctored before leaving France. The French Consul at Buenos Ayres writes home to his government that so much complaint is made there of the appearance of litharge and other dangerous drugs in all their French wines, that there is great danger of losing the trade of the Argentine States. Other proofs could be cited were it necessary, to prove the superiority of the best class of California wines and brandy. Orders from responsible parties, addressed to Wm. Scheffler, or Geo. H. Beach, St. Helena, Napa county, Cal., will receive prompt attention.

FALSE IMPRESSION.

It is generally supposed by physicians and the people generally that Dyspepsia cannot invariably be cured, but we are pleased to say that GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER has never, to our knowledge, failed to cure Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint in all its forms, such as Sour Stomach, Costiveness, Sick Headache, Palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, bad taste in the mouth, etc. Out of the 50,000 dozen bottles sold last year, not a single failure was reported, but thousands of complimentary letters received from Druggists of wonderful cures. Three doses will relieve any case. Try it. Sample Bottles 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. For sale by Hodge, Davis & Co.

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors and falling out of the hair. It furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is the most economical preparation ever offered to the public, as its effects remain a long time, making only an occasional application necessary. It is recommended and used by eminent medical men, and officially indorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Renewer has increased with the test of many years, both in this country and in foreign lands, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world. For sale by all dealers. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

ALASKA.

John Muir, now in Alaska, says that the coast line of that vast territory is 26,000 miles long, while that of all the rest of the United States is only 10,000 miles. The Alexander archipelago alone includes 1100 islands. Of scenes and experiences along the coast he thus writes:

Hinting what we can about it all in a general way, we may regard it as an intricate web of embroidery, sixty or seventy miles wide—fine spun coast lace trimming the rugged mountain-laden continent from Puget sound to the ice about the pole. Some would say that it is all one monotone of beauty, but it is not. The general type—the pattern—is the same throughout, but no two views are alike. Here you glide into a narrow channel, hemmed in with mountains, forested down to the water's edge. There is no distant view, and your attention is pushed back to the object close about you: the crowded spires of the spruces rising higher on the steep green slopes; gaps of paler green where winter avalanches have cleared away the trees, retreating hollows, the fountains of ancient glaciers, with lingering snowbanks in the shadows, and zigzags of cascades disappearing in the forest, short steep glens, with brawling streams hidden beneath alder and dogwood, seen only where they emerge on the brown ashes of the shore, or from mossy cliffs. Perhaps a few duck's may pass overhead, or a bald eagle may be seen leisurely pluming on the top of a dead spar, or a coon heard uttering his intensely lonely cry. All this is pure wildness, as closely shut in and withdrawn as a glacier lake on the summit of the Sierras.

In the meanwhile the steamer is often so near the shore you may distinctly see the purple cones clustered on the tops of the trees, and the ferns and mosses at their feet. But now scenes are brought to view with magical rapidity. Rounding some mossy cape, the eye is called away into far-reaching vistas, bounded by finely curved headlands in charming array, one dipping gracefully beyond the other, and growing fainter and more ethereal in the distance. The bright, tranquil channel stretches river like between, stirred here and there by the flash of leaping salmon that rise a foot or two above the water like vivid jets of silver, and by flocks of white gulls floating like lillies among the sun spangles, while the mellow-tempered sunshine, pouring over all, blends sky, land and water in pale misty blue. Then, while you are gazing with strange, dreamy longings into the depths of this lovely ocean lane, the steamer, turning into some passage not visible until the moment of entering it, glides through into a wide expanse—a sound filled with islands, sprinkled or clustered in forms and compositions such as only God could invent. Some sheer-faced, plunging deep into the blue prairie, others rounding off in fine convex brows, or with hollow curves terminating in long level points tipped with sedge. Some are so small the trees growing on them seem like single handfulls culled from the neighboring woods and set in the water to keep them fresh, while here and there at wide intervals you may notice a bare rock just above the water—a black dot, punctuating the end of a full outswelling sentence of islands, every word of which is reflected in the mirror water, form and meaning doubled.

For Dyspepsia Damiana Bitters. Fleckenstein & Mayer are sole agents.

SUICIDE.

A distinguished Scientist once said: "No man with a strong, healthy stomach ever committed suicide, yet many suffer the torments of the damned with dyspepsia, when a single bottle of DR. MINTIE'S ENGLISH DANDELION LIVER AND DYSPEPSIA PILLS will give relief, and, if persisted in, cure the worse case of this distressing trouble. This pill cures torpid liver, biliousness, sallow complexion, foul breath, sick headache, heartburn, pain in side and back, removes pimples from the face, regulates the bowels, is sugar-coated and guaranteed purely vegetable. It acts directly on the coating of the stomach and on the liver; is suited to any climate, wet or dry weather. Beware of imitations; genuine has cut of lion on outside wrapper. Price, 50 cents. Sold by all druggists. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, wholesale agents.

How to Save Money.

Instead of going to a doctor, if you have Bright's Disease, Diabetes, pain in back and loins, smarting, inflammation, calculi, brick-dust deposit, or any trouble of the kidneys or bladder, buy a bottle of DR. MINTIE'S NEPHRETICUM, the great Buchu Compound. It is the best prescription ever compounded for these troubles. Abrams & Carroll Wholesale Druggists, say: "We regard Nephreticum as the best Kidney and Bladder Remedy in the market." Woodward, druggist, Portland, Oregon, says: "Everybody speaks highly of it." Childs, druggist, Portland, says "Sold lots of it, it always does the work." Many have been cured of obstinate kidney complaints after the doctors gave them up. Sold by all druggists. Price $1 25. Hodge, Davis & Co., Portland, Wholesale Agents.

Sir Astley Cooper's Vital Restorative.

The great English remedy—has made more cures of Nervous Debility, Seminal Weakness, Lost Manhood, nocturnal emissions, lassitude, inability for mental labor, despondency, and such diseases as are induced by youthful follies and excesses, than all other medicines combined.

It is not a stimulant nor excitant, is perfectly safe to take, is not a quack nostrum, and produces results that are wonderful.

Price, $3 a bottle. Four times the quantity, $10. Buy a bottle. It will not disappoint you. Hodge, Davis & Co., wholesale agents.

DECISION IN THE U S DISTRICT COURT DEADY J

U S District Court—District of Oregon

TUESDAY Nov 18 1879

The A. ... Heron. Libel for forfeiture. Walter ... Claimant.

(1 [illegible] Whether a forfeiture ... [illegible] ... of the property depends upon the intention of congress ... by the language of the statute ... [illegible]

(2 [illegible] ... certain act a vessel shall be liable to forfeiture does ... [illegible] ... forfeiture. The process of law ... in the same ... and ... the time of seizure ... [illegible]

(3 BONA FIDE PURCHASER. A purchaser in good faith of a vessel liable to forfeiture under ... 4189 and before seizure ... and may hold the same against the ...

DEADY J

This suit is brought by the district attorney on behalf the United States to enforce an alleged forfeiture of the schooner Kate Heron her tackle apparel and furniture for the violation of §§ 4189 and 4377 of the R S.

The libel contains two counts. The first is drawn under the former of said sections and alleges that on January 17 1878 A. N. Hamilton as sole owner of said vessel applied to the collector of the district of Willamette for a license to carry on the coasting trade and to that end took and subscribed before John P Ward a deputy collector of customs, the oath required by § 4142 of the R S to the effect, among other things that he was the true and sole owner of said vessel and that no subject of any foreign power was any way interested therein or in the profits thereof in both of which particulars said oath was knowingly false in this that Alexander McKenzie a subject of Great Britain was then a half owner of said vessel and as such directly interested in the profits thereof that by reason of such false and fraudulent representations such vessel was enrolled and licensed by said collector for the coasting trade which enrollment and license were thus fraudulently obtained

The second count is drawn under the latter of said sections and alleges that on January 10 1878, the Kate Heron being a licensed vessel was transferred in part by said A. N. Hamilton to Alexander McKenzie aforesaid for the sum of $850

The claimant excepts to the first count of the libel for that, it appears therefrom that said oath was taken before a deputy collector of customs and not before the collector and is therefore invalid and answers the second count denying that at the time of the alleged transfer to McKenzie the Kate Heron was a licensed vessel for the reason that prior thereto she had been conveyed to said Hamilton by William Thompson whereby her license became revoked

The answer contains a plea in bar or peremptory exception to the whole libel to the effect that on April 7 1879 the claimant purchased the vessel from said Hamilton in good faith and for "a full and valuable consideration," without any knowledge of the alleged transfer or that said vessel was liable to forfeiture.

The libellant excepts to this plea for the reason that it appears therefrom that the claimant purchased the vessel long after the forfeiture thereof accrued to the United States

This plea does not purport to be made to either count of the libel but upon the argument it was taken for granted that it applied only to the first count. Then, it follows that there is an exception to this count because it does not state a cause of forfeiture upon its face and also an exception which admits such forfeiture but avoids it as to the claimant

These exceptions operate as a demurrer and plea in confession and avoidance to the same matter would at common law I do not think they can be taken together and therefore the latter must be construed as a waiver of the former

The point of this first exception however, is that, as the statute (§ 4142 R. S) provides that a vessel shall be registered before "the collector, and (§ 4141 R S) that the owner's oath for that purpose shall be taken before the officer authorized to make such registry such oath cannot be administered by a deputy collector § 4312 R. S. provides that the regulations concerning the registration of vessels shall apply to the enrollment thereof. § 2630 R S authorizes the collector of customs, with the approval of the secretary of the treasury, to employ as many deputies as he may deem necessary—which deputies are declared to be officers of the customs." Assuming that Ward was a deputy collector under this section it is difficult to see why he was not authorized to administer this oath The authority to appoint a deputy is explicit and unqualified A deputy is one authorized to stand in the place of another—he exercises the office or right of another—Bouvier, (verbum, deputy), Burrill, (Idem)

The power of the deputy extended as far as his principal's, either under the administration of the law relating to customs or navigation. The exception, if not waived is not well taken

The validity of the defence set up in the plea depends upon the question whether the forfeiture declared in § 4189 of the R S takes effect upon the commission of the offence or upon the commencement of proceedings to assert the right of the government to the same.

At common law a judgment of death for treason or felony worked a forfeiture of the lands of the criminal, which, for the purpose of avoiding all alienations, had relation back to the time of committing the offence, while in the case of goods and chattels forfeited for the crime of the owner the forfeiture arose upon the conviction or verdict or a finding that the party had fled and had no relation backwards; so that a bona fide sale between the commission of the offence and the conviction or flight was not affected thereby (2 Bac. Ab., 733, 4 Black 381, 387 U S v 1960 bags of coffee, 8 Cr., 409) But in the case last cited, the supreme court held that when an act of congress declares that a chattel shall be forfeited for the commission of a particular act, that there the forfeiture takes place upon the commission of such act, and the statute operates to transfer the title at once to the government so as to avoid all subsequent sales of the property, however innocent the purchaser

Afterwards, the supreme court, in Caldwell v. the U S., (8 How, 381,) and Henderson's distilled spirits, (14 Wall, 56) held that where a statute declares a forfeiture absolutely as that a particular thing shall be forfeited, for the commission or omission of a particular act, that there the decree of condemnation relates back to the wrongful act, and the forfeiture takes effect from that time so as to avoid all subsequent sales

But in the U S v Grundy (3 Cr 349) where the statute gave a forfeiture in the alternative, as follows—"There shall be a forfeiture of the ship or the value thereof," the court held that the government acquired no property or right in either until it elected which to take and commenced proceedings therefor and this ruling was affirmed and followed in Caldwell v. The U S supra

Section 4189 of the R S under which this count is framed reads as follows

"Whenever any certificate of registry, enrollment, or license or other record or document granted in lieu thereof to any vessel, is knowingly and fraudulently obtained or used for any vessel not entitled to the benefit thereof, such vessel, with her tackle apparel and furniture shall be liable to forfeiture

This is § 24 of the act of July 18 1866 (14 Stat 184) further to prevent smuggling and for other purposes and is amendatory of c 27 of December 31 1792, 1 Stat 298 concerning the registry and recording of ships or vessels

The amendment consists in making the obtaining a certificate as well as the use of it a cause of forfeiture and in the addition of the words enrollment or license thus making the section applicable to vessels engaged in domestic commerce as well as foreign The language in which the forfeiture is declared is also changed from ... shall be forfeited —to— shall be liable to ...

Does the section as it now stands ... a present absolute forfeiture of the vessel coincident with the commission of the unlawful act or does it merely give ... States a right of action ... declared forfeited by due process of ...

The language used— shall be liable to forfeiture —imports nothing more than that the thing used in the commission of ... lawful act may be seized and ... forfeited to the United States The word ... in no sense signifies a present and absolute loss punishment or injury but only ... thing which may befall the person or thing so situated A surety is liable for the debt of his principal—that is, in a certain contingency—the default of the principal—he may be compelled to pay it. Sold ... are liable to be killed and sailors to be drowned But neither of these liabilities is death A fraudulent debtor is liable to imprisonment but this of itself does not deprive him of his liberty Webster defines liable thus— Obliged in law or equity Subject and says it denotes something external which may befall us As an illustration he quotes the lines from Milton—

> But what is strength without a double share
> Of wisdom Vast, unwieldy burdensome
> Proudly secure yet liable to fall
> By weakest subtleties

In the Ran er 1 Deady 443, this court held that ... [illegible] ... of the steamboat ... of 1838 ... which declared that the vessel ... liable for certain penalties thereby imposed upon the owner did not give the United States any interest in said vessel until a seizure thereof

[illegible] ... shall be liable to ... [illegible] ... liable ... the law.

[illegible] ... reason of the ... [illegible] ... these ... [illegible] ... 1960 Bags of C... [illegible] ... against whom the forfeiture was ... take effect

As has been shown at common law goods and chattels forfeited for the personal offense of the owner did not become the property of the king until after conviction or ... so that a sale to a bona fide purchaser between the commission of the offense and the verdict of guilty or flight was a valid transfer of the property But when the forfeiture is made as in this case to attach to the thing by means of which the offence is committed the proceeding to declare the forfeiture may be and usually is commenced by a seizure of the offending property In such case the forfeiture when ... related back to the seizure so as to ... that sales ... The reason of this distinction is apparent By the act of seizure the owner is divested of the possession and thereafter no one deals with the owner upon the faith of it The property being taken into the custody of the law upon a charge of having been instrumental in the commission of a wrong whoever purchases it does so at his peril and subject to the claim of the government upon which such seizure took place

And such I think is the effect of the statute It does not work a present forfeiture of the vessel but only makes it liable to forfeiture by due process of law But until a seizure is made for the purpose of enforcing this liability the title to the vessel is in the owner and a purchaser from him in good faith acquires the same and may hold the property against the government, which by neglecting to assert its right has lost it

In this case the transfer of the vessel to the claimant was made on April 7 1879 while the seizure did not take place until the 29th of the following August at which time Hamilton had no interest in the vessel and therefore it was no longer liable to forfeiture as his property and for acts done before the sale to the claimant

The plea is good and the exception thereto is disallowed

Rufus Mallory for the United States
Sidney Dell for the claimant

One of the things which are past finding out sometimes, is the secret influence by which the numerous fluctuations in the wheat market recently, have been produced Yesterday the figures were marked up a trifle everywhere with a strong feeling at all points. To-day it is all past and a general feebler feeling prevails in all the great grain centers as well as the country markets. To ascertain the cause of the unsteadiness is a task not easily accomplished, but the general impression is gaining ground that much of the variation of late has been attributable to the manipulation of speculators more than to any new developments in the matter of supply and demand In the unsettled and see-sawing condition of the market trade is rather dull and transactions slow

Freights have not accumulated and ship owners do not seem disposed to make any concessions There is some wheat offering in the market but buyers who are not under necessities refuse to bid over $1 65 per cental

DR PAUL M BRENAN has been fifteen years lecturing on the Laws of Life and Health In his private and public lectures he has taught men and women the true system of life how to be healthy and happy if they would only be guided by his wise cousel. His experience in the various parts of Europe and America give him such opportunities of learning the delicate diseases which the human family are prone to their mode of treatment and permanent cure as no other physician on the Pacific Coast can claim He has not only treated these diseases most successfully but has made them a life study as a few moments consultation will prove
